

J-SCHOOL IMMERSION REPORTING PROGRAMS

“Going Home to Ghana”

May 15-June 12, 2020 JOUR 499

Instructors: Miki Turner and Afua Hirsch

I INFO SESSION

Oct. 30, 1-2 p.m.

ANN 409ABC

Contact Miki Turner

(mpturner@usc.edu) with questions.

APPLICATIONS DUE

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 7

Apply: [annenberg.usc.edu/
jschoolimmersion](https://annenberg.usc.edu/jschoolimmersion)

Open to all sophomores, juniors, seniors and graduate students. Journalism experience is strongly encouraged.

To understand our present, we must revisit our past. And, if we are to believe the anthropologists, our collective pasts began in Africa. For many African Americans Ghana is Ground Zero, which is why the country launched a year-long “welcome home” initiative to encourage those of African ancestry to trace their roots. Students will develop a broader perspective on covering the global intersection of race, cultural and politics as they intern at local news outlets and report on the country’s evolution and its global cultural significance.

USC Annenberg