COMMUNICATION

Show graduate programs and employers that you have a critical mind, that you take initiative, and that you can execute on a vision.

Fall: take a small, intensive, highly collaborative workshop with fellow honors students in which you will envision and develop an original research proposal with the guidance of Annenberg faculty.

Spring: with faculty guidance, execute your vision and project, producing an original project that shows your creativity, rigor, and commitment to public communication of scholarship.

culminate your undergraduate experience with an independent research project • connect with other students inspired to investigate • enhance your resume and professional profile
